Allianz X to invest in GT Motive

- GT Motive is a leading technology and data-driven automotive claims solutions provider active in 28 countries
- Demand for services growing as vehicle component complexity increases and total vehicle market expands
- GT Motive is Allianz X's third majority investment and joins a portfolio of over 25 companies

Munich/Madrid, September 13, 2021

Allianz X, the digital investments arm of Allianz Group, announced today that it has entered into binding agreements with the shareholders of GT Motive, Mitchell International, Inc. and Einsa Print S.A., to acquire a majority stake in the company. The transaction is subject to the approval of the relevant antitrust authorities.

GT Motive is a Software-as-a-Service (SaaS) company that develops solutions for estimating and managing automotive insurance claims, as well as maintenance and mechanical breakdowns. It serves business customers across the automotive, insurance, and fleet & leasing industries. GT Motive's tools and technologies enable a fast path to normality after a vehicle accident or mechanical breakdown, for example, by streamlining claims handling through more efficient and automated loss assessments. The company has a strong international footprint with presence in 28 countries, as well as a global network of technology and business partners, including most vehicle manufacturers. Its target market is expected to grow further in the coming years due to the increasing complexity of vehicle components, which require more sophisticated repairs, as well as a general expansion of the total vehicle market.

"GT Motive provides highly-accurate data at competitive prices and one of the most integrative, customer-centric platforms on the market," said Dr. Nazim Cetin, CEO of Allianz X. "We see enormous potential to scale it up into a hard-hitting heavy-weight. All it needs is some more muscle behind it—and that's where Allianz X can help."

"We have won the support of a business partner that is committed to digitalization and recognizes our contribution to the industry after many years of service and hard work," said Ángel Martínez, CEO of GT Motive. "Our long-term vision requires commitment and investment. In Allianz X, GT Motive has found the best way to ensure that."

Following the transaction, GT Motive will maintain its business model and operational autonomy. The company will retain its name, brand, and culture, and will continue to offer its full range of services to all clients, including Allianz.
